NEW QUESTION: 2

Tex Payor has invested in Invest4U Mutual Fund shares at various times over the last eight years. In the past year, he has sold some of the shares purchased. To determine the cost basis of these shares, Tex:

- A. can choose to sell specific shares in order to minimize or maximize his cost basis, whichever is more beneficial given his tax circumstances.
- B. should use dollar cost averaging to determine his cost basis.
- C. must use last in/first out (LIFO) accounting to determine his cost basis.
- D. must use first in/ first out (FIFO) accounting to determine his cost basis.

Answer: A

Explanation:

To determine the cost basis of share he has bought at various time over the last eight years, Tex can choose to sell specific shares in order to minimize or maximize his cost basis, whichever is more beneficial given his tax circumstances. If Tex doesn't specify shares, the IRS will assume the first shares purchased were the first shares sold (FIFO) in determining Tex's cost basis. The LIFO method cannot be assumed when determining the cost basis of the shares Tex owns, and dollar cost averaging is an investment strategy, not a method used in determining a cost basis.

NEW QUESTION: 3

What two situations could require the use of multiple routing protocols? (Choose two)

- A. when there are multiple paths to destination networks
- B. because having multiple routing protocols confuses hackers
- C. when migrating from an older Interior Gateway Protocol (IGP) to a new IGP
- D. when using UNIX host-based routers
- E. when smaller broadcast domains are desired
- F. when all equipment is manufactured by Cisco

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

Simple routing protocols work well for simple networks, but networks grow and become more complex. While running a single routing protocol throughout your entire IP internetwork is desirable, multiprotocol routing is common for a number of reasons, including company mergers, multiple departments managed by multiple network administrators, multivendor environments, or simply because the original routing protocol is no longer the best choice. Often, the multiple protocols are redistributed into each other during a migration period from one protocol to the other.

NEW QUESTION: 4

After a network outage, a PC technician is unable to ping various network devices. The network administrator verifies that those devices are working properly and can be accessed securely. Which of the following is the MOST likely reason the PC technician is unable to ping those devices?

- A. SNMP is not configured properly
- B. SSH is not enabled
- C. ICMP is being blocked

D. DNS settings are wrong

Answer: C

Explanation:

ICMP is a protocol that is commonly used by tools such as ping, traceroute, and pathping. ICMP offers no information. If ICMP request queries go unanswered, or ICMP replies are lost or blocked.
