NEW QUESTION: 3

Note: This question is part of a series of questions that use the same scenario. For your convenience, the scenario is repeated in each question. Each question presents a different goal and answer choices, but the text of the scenario is exactly the same in each question in this series.

Start of repeated scenario.

Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The domain contains a single site named Site1. All computers are in Site1.

The Group Policy objects (GPOs) for the domain are configured as shown in the exhibit. (Click the Exhibit button.)

The relevant users and client computer in the domain are configured as shown in the following table.

End of repeated scenario.

You are evaluating what will occur when you disable the Group Policy link for A6.

Which GPOs will apply to User2 when the user signs in to Computer1 after the link for A6 is disabled?

- A. A1 and A5 only
- B. A3, A1, A5, and A4 only
- C. A3, A1, A5, and A7
- D. A3, A1, and A5 only

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 4

What happens when the Thin Provisioning property is set for a LUN?

- A. A ZFS file system is created by setting a quota and reservation to the same value.
- B. This property allows the volume size to exceed the amount of available space.
- C. Thin provisioning allows the storage administrator to divide the pool capacity into evenly sized LUNs.
- D. A share reserves exactly enough space to completely fill the share.

Answer: B

Explanation:

By default, a LUN reserves exactly enough space to completely fill the volume. This ensures that clients will not get out-of-space errors at inopportune times. This property allows the volume size to exceed the amount of available space. When set, the LUN will consume only the space that has been written to the LUN. While this allows for thin provisioning of LUNs, most filesystems do not expect to get "out of space" from underlying devices, and if the share runs out of space, it may cause instability and/or data corruption on clients.
