When packets transfer from one host to another across a routed segment, the source IP address always remains the same source IP address, and the source physical (MAC) address will be the existing router's interface address. Similarly, the destination IP address always remains the same and the destination physical (MAC) address is the destination router's interface address.

NEW QUESTION: 3

You are configuring data persistence for a Microsoft Bot Framework application. The application requires a structured NoSQL cloud data store.

You need to identify a storage solution for the application. The solution must minimize costs.

What should you identify?

A. Azure Cosmos DB

B. Azure Blob storage

C. Azure Table storage

D. Azure HDInsight

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

Table Storage is a NoSQL key-value store for rapid development using massive semi-structured datasets You can develop applications on Cosmos DB using popular NoSQL APIs.

Both services have a different scenario and pricing model.

While Azure Storage Tables is aimed at high capacity on a single region (optional secondary read only region but no failover), indexing by PK/RK and storage-optimized pricing; Azure Cosmos DB Tables aims for high throughput (single-digit millisecond latency), global distribution (multiple failover), SLA-backed predictive performance with automatic indexing of each attribute/property and a pricing model focused on throughput.
