How many SIP signaling dialog(s) took place in this SIP message exchange between two SIP user agents?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3
- E. 4
- F. 5

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

During the establishment, maintenance and termination of a SIP session, signaling messages are exchanged between the two SIP endpoints. There are two different kinds of signaling "conversations" that those messages take part in: transactions and dialogs.

A transaction is a SIP message exchange between two user-agents that starts with a request and ends with its final response (it can also contain zero or more provisional responses in between). For example, during the termination of a SIP session, one user releases the call by sending a BYE request and the other party replies back with a 200 OK response. This message exchange is called a transaction.

But what happens in the case of the INVITE request? The establishment of a SIP session starts basically with an INVITE request and is considered as completed upon the receipt of the ACK. In this case, the transaction starts with the INVITE request and ends with the 200 OK, so the ACK is not part of the transaction. The ACK can be considered as a transaction on its own. However, when the final response to an INVITE is not a 2xx response, then the ACK is considered as part of the transaction. A dialog is a complete exchange of SIP messages between two user-agents.

That means that transactions are actually parts of a dialog. For example, in the case of a SIP session establishment, a dialog starts with the INVITE-200 OK transaction, continues with the ACK and ends with the BYE-200 OK transaction.

The picture below depicts the dialog and transactions that take place during the establishment of a SIP session:

Note: There can also be subsequent requests that belong to the same dialog, such as a BYE or a re- INVITE message. As out-of-dialog requests are considered messages such as an initial INVITE request for a new session or an OPTIONS message for checking capabilities.

There are different SIP headers/parameters that identify the dialogs and transactions, and they will be analyzed in later posts.

NEW QUESTION: 2

You are examining a portfolio composed of 33% money-market investments, 9.5% bonds, and 57.5% stocks. Last year, the return on the money-market investments was 4%; the return on bonds was 9%, and the return on stocks was -11%. What is the contribution of stocks toward the portfolio weighted average return?

- A. -6.325%.
- B. -57.50%.
- C. -4.15%.
- D. -11.00%.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

The portfolio weighted-average mean return is equal to the sum (as  $i$  goes from 1 to  $n$ ) of  $w_i * X_i$ , where  $w_i$  is the percentage weight in the portfolio of the  $i$ th asset, and  $X_i$  is the investment return of the  $i$ th asset. The contribution of any asset will equal its weight in the portfolio times its return. Here, we get  $0.575$

$* -0.11 = -6.325\%$ .
